

Murray Declares, Bill Shows N.A.M. Dictates Economy

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Senator Murray (D-Mont.) said today that the "Taft-Hartley labor bill" constitutes a declaration that the National Association of Manufacturers "is to be the unquestioned spokesman of our economic system."

Murray assailed the bill to restrict union activities as the Republican leadership drove for a final Senate vote and dispatch of the legislation to the White House by nightfall.

The Montana senator told his colleagues that the compromise bill, already approved by the House, means that "labor is to be put up in its place, stripped of many of its essential rights, and so battered and weakened as to be ineffective hereafter at the bargaining table."

"Inevitably labor will seek to elude the chains fastened for it. This means conflict and chaos between labor and management as long as this effort to gain the upper hand continues."

Proponents of the bill contend that the measure will encourage industrial peace by "equalizing the rights and responsibilities of employers, workers and unions."

In a section by section analysis, Murray criticized changes made in the original Senate bill by House-Senate conferees who ironed out differences between separate bills passed by the two branches.

Declaring "it was announced at the outset that we were to be fair," Murray said the labor bill has "given workers and trade unions no new right of privilege," and that "to the contrary, it has removed most of those which they enjoyed."

He said the bill is only in the interest of employers and that fairness played no part in its drafting or passage.

Wicks Firemen Hire Music for Convention

Members of A. H. Wicks Engine Company No. 4, voted at a meeting Thursday night to hire the Leon-Neon Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps of Newburgh to lead the company in the parade in Port Jervis during the convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association in August.

The corps has 30 or more members and three majorities and has won considerable notice in the Hudson Valley region for its effective march music and colorful costumes.

The firemen also voted to hold a clambake in August, and appointed a committee with full power to arrange to have the company represented with a softball team. An activities committee was also appointed with full power to make arrangements for various company events.

Nisei as the foreman known as "Kaw-kida" in the prison camp.

Got His License Number

Bruce followed him and jolted down the license number of his car then reported his discovery to the F.B.I.

Richard Hood, F.B.I. chief here, said investigation disclosed that Kawakita obtained a passport in 1939 to go to Japan, to study at Keio University. He returned to the United States Aug. 15, 1946, a year after the war's end, after obtaining a passport in Yokohama on the representation he was a student during the war years, the federal officer said.

In Washington, F.B.I. Chief J. Edgar Hoover said Kawakita, son of a former Calcutta grocer, had, as camp foreman, assigned prisoners to "impossible tasks and cruelly and maliciously mistreated the men under his control."

The F.B.I. said evidence indicated Kawakita had claimed the United States citizenship he was entitled to by birth, and so far as is known had never taken any oath of allegiance to the Japanese empire.

Quotes Bruce

F.B.I. Agent William A. Murphy quoted Bruce as saying:

"All of us in the camp knew this fellow. When he wasn't actually forcing us to submit to indignities, he was coaxing some of the Jap soldiers into some devilish plans to harass us."

"All of us agreed, after hearing him brag about having been born in the United States, that if we ever saw him again we would kill him. I don't doubt that every American who left the camp departed with the idea of sometime coming across 'Kaw-kida' and wiping that silly grin off his face."

Bruce said at San Luis Obispo, Calif., where he is a student at California Polytechnic Institute, that "I was astounded at seeing him in that store. I knew him immediately. I couldn't ever forget him."

Bruce, a veteran of the Bataan death march, was discharged from an army hospital Aug. 16, 1946, and entered California Poly last December. He is studying air conditioning. He and Irma Dean, 21, of Lordsburg, N. M., were married last August.

Peron Has Trouble At Home; Threat Made via Radio

Buenos Aires, June 6 (AP)—President Juan D. Peron was confronted today by new opposition at home, apparently because of policies he adopted to restore friendly relations between Argentina and the United States.

An unidentified voice mysteriously broke into a nationwide presidential broadcast last night with the shout: "Death to Peron," and there were indications that the interrupter was an extreme Argentine Nationalist, affronted by the resignation Wednesday of Federal Police Chief Juan Filomeno Velazco.

Velazco's resignation, under circumstances strongly suggesting that he had been dismissed on Peron's order, previously had been interpreted as a measure designed to cement friendship between Argentina and the United States.

Velazco was known as a leader of extreme Argentine Nationalists who had expressed Axis sympathies during the war.

Peron was speaking at a farewell celebration for his wife, Eva Duarte Peron, who is heading for a tour of Europe, when his speech was cut off and an unidentified voice said:

"Very good, general. We here denounce those who proclaim themselves supporters of a false social justice. We call upon Argentines."

"Workers! We are the same who on other occasions watched over Argentine dignity."

"We return to say what the people want to know and what the cynical Peron does not want to know. Death to Peron! Peron, Peron, Peron—death!"

28,462 Crosses Are Sad Reminder on D-Day Anniversary

By ROBERT EUNSON

Cherbourg, June 6 (AP)—Driving through the checkerboard pattern of hedgerows in Normandy on this third anniversary of D-Day, the breathtaking sight on endless rows of white crosses beneath the apple trees impresses one more than anything else.

When elements of five American divisions landed in Normandy—two by air and three by sea—on June 6, 1944, they opened one of the greatest, if not costliest, military campaigns in American history.

Wrestling the Cherbourg peninsula from the German forces that had vanquished Europe gave the Allies a major seaport and enough space to load the continent with a striking force that was powerful enough to sweep 250 miles to Paris within one month after the break through at St. Lo.

But the men who secured the Cherbourg peninsula had to do it the hard way, and nearly 30,000 of them paid with their blood.

There are nine U. S. Military cemeteries in Normandy where 28,462 white crosses mark the sleeping places of American soldiers.

Lockdown fighting and the hard luck of the paratroopers run into on D-Day are generally accepted as the reason for this overwhelming figure.

Toll Was 5 to 1

The Nazi machine gunner, lying in wait behind the hedgerow, and the Boche, who turned his back fire into the clouds of white smoke that were American paratroopers, took a toll of approximately five to one.

There are only about 5,000 Germans buried in Normandy—about 3,000 in LaCambre and another 2,000 at St. Mere Eglise.

Maj. Robert Crissom, 26-year-old regular army officer, from Birmingham, Ala., who survived the first wave at Utah Beach and the Normandy campaign, lists three reasons for the heavy toll in American lives: (1) German (2) breaks in the hedgerow and (3) shells exploding in the trees.

In Normandy the farmers use hedges to divide one tiny field from another instead of using fences. A machine gunner could lie in wait behind a hedge and kill on and on, and hedgerow men before he was discovered. The gate into every field outlined a soldier coming through it just as if he were walking into a shooting gallery. The bursts of artillery shells in the umbrella shaped apple trees of Normandy tended to spray the hedgerow with lead and shrapnel, hence a slit trench was no good unless it was covered—and men on the attack don't have that much time.

Landscape Beautifully

The nine military cemeteries in Normandy are landscaped so beautifully that almost every American who sees them expresses the same opinion: "It's too bad they can't be left just the way they are now."

Mrs. Winona Thomas of Mt. Carmel, Pa., whose husband is buried practically where he fell at Marigny, said:

"I came over here thinking I'd take Craig home with me, but I've changed my mind. I'm sure he'd want it this way."

Lt. Craig, a member of the Second Armored Division was a veteran of the African and Sicily campaigns and was killed in the break through at St. Lo.

man of the sixth ward, and James Fowler, uptown lawyer.

Sacco man Is Mentioned

With interest in politics becoming more intense, however, as the fall elections grow closer, another name looms on the Democratic slate, that of Joseph Sacco, local realtor, who is one of the leading men in his field. He formerly represented the J. P. Morgan & Co. and was recently elected as grand knight of Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus.

Mayor Edelmuth announced several months ago that he was desirous of becoming state president of the Kingston Club of New York City.

Today is not a surprise to those who have been his fraternal brothers over a period of years during which he was very active in affairs of the organization.

Returns Are Awaited

Both Democrats and Republicans, high in their parties, are eagerly awaiting returns from the Troy convention elections. If the mayor's ambitions as state president are realized, they will be disappointed.

tain he'll be out of the full election campaign in Kingston, but should a dark horse be successful, they will have to wait for his present stand on that old campaign announcement of not seeking a fourth term. He is now serving his third.

Judge Is Speaker

Addressing the Troy convention today, Judge John F. Scileppi of the Municipal Court of New York city, retiring state president, criticized Henry A. Wallace, former U. S. vice president, for "impugning the integrity of America by his wild thinking and loose talk."

He added that to "comfort those who believe in overthrow of government by force is bordering on treason."

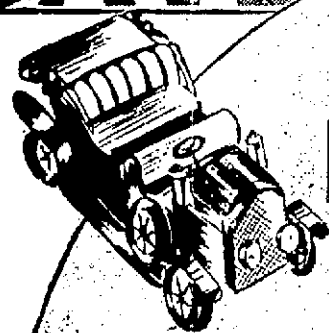

"Some of our so-called statesmen have fallen prey to the propaganda and today advocate the cause of Communism," Judge Scileppi said.

"One of these dopes to lecture at home and abroad for these ideals which have enslaved 14 million people in Red concentration camps," he declared, and added:

"I wonder if Henry Wallace realizes his views give aid to policies founded on reckless, Godless force and oppression. He is impugning the integrity of

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 6, 1947

INCOME TAXES

Senate passage of the income tax reduction bill was the result of argument that there would be an $8,500,000,000 surplus in the United States Treasury; that if $3,200,000,000 could be applied to the reduction in income taxes as the framers of the bill plan, there would still be a $5,000,000,000 balance for contingencies and for application to the public debt. In other words, reduction of both tax and debt could be achieved.

It is important that taxes be reduced if it can be accomplished and a healthy federal economy still be maintained. Not only would such a step be a definite ease of burden on all income groups, but it would have a good psychological effect.

It is an inescapable fact that incentive to effort is being dulled. Why should a man work to his utmost power if the resultant increase in income is syphoned off by his government? Especially when he feels sure too much of it is being used for causes with which he has little sympathy? He wants his Uncle Sam, for instance, to feed hungry people overseas who cannot feed themselves. But he wants to be sure his Uncle Sam is extending the strong hand of a friend who is helping his neighbor get on his feet, and not merely being done in as a sucker. He resents working hard to be taxed too high for the latter possibility.

Under the present tax structure situations are not uncommon wherein a man has more take-home pay left if he keeps his income down than if he strives to add to it. There is also abroad in the land a growing feeling that government can cut expenses and still render adequate service. If tax cuts will revitalize the productive urge among all classes of Americans, the Treasury can actually benefit from a judicious tax reduction at this time.

A COLLEGE EDUCATION

A bulge in college enrollments is not all attributable to veterans. Prospects according to the U. S. Office of Education are for a steady rise at least until 1960. This year there are more than two million students in the nation's colleges, a growth of 40 per cent over 1940 figures. By 1950 there will be two and a half million students, and the number is expected to reach three million within the following decade. More and more, higher education is appealing to high school graduates. If unemployment should become widespread within the next few years, as some predict, colleges will have even more applicants especially among veterans still eligible for G.I. tuition aids for married and single students.

Colleges which now find themselves strained for building space and faculty personnel, in the face of the increased demand for their facilities, will be better prepared soon to meet their obligations. But this is not the whole story. Warnings are out that there may be an oversupply of this class of trained citizenry—too many white collar job applicants. So, education, however it is looked at, will remain one of the big problems, until people begin to realize that education is not merely for a few professional groups, but for all. Education in languages, literature and the liberal arts in general never hurt a handworker. Such education enriches the individual life of any citizen and increases the democratic powers of any nation.

TELLING THE WORLD

The newest fashions in neckties indicate that men are really beginning to go places. One is a tie with small battery attached, which lights up at the pressure of a button. Even more startling is one containing blank cartridges, which explode at the wearer's pleasure. Just the thing for anyone wanting a tie which will enable him to be heard from.

MASS COLLEGE EDUCATION

The problem that has faced every college and university during the past year has been the avoidance of factory methods in education. In some colleges the classes have become so large that professors piped their wisdom through microphones to impersonal audiences. It is impossible, under such circumstances, for any personal relations to exist between professor and student, for intellectual give and take, for the sharpening of wits on the grindstone of argument.

That has long been a fault of the larger universities. The freshman is thrown into a sea of students and he either sinks or swims. There is, of course, a faculty adviser but he is burdened heavily and unless the student takes his course, the association is administrative rather than personal. The story goes that a student in one of our best universities, having reached his senior year, his mother planned to visit him. She wrote suggesting that she would like to meet some of his professors. The boy replied: "I am glad you have at last decided to visit me as I should like you to see my room-mates. As for my professors, I should like to meet them, too. Maybe you can arrange it."

Education is not merely a process of cramming data from books nor filling one's memory with the details of lectures. It is as much the broadening and leavening influence of wise and experienced minds and personalities; it is the inspiration that comes from close contact with men of knowledge, experience and culture. Today in most large colleges the best that most students can do is occasionally to have some talk with youthful "section men" who are not much older than the students themselves and often not more experienced. This is particularly true when the "section man" happens to be a 4-F who therefore is somewhat ahead of the veteran in scholastic graduation but not in the experience of living.

I look back to the inspiration of my own college days. I knew of no one in my class more intelligent than such men as Charles A. Beard, James Harvey Robinson, Carlton Hayes, Talcott Williams, Dickinson S. Miller, Edwin Slosson, Walter Pittkin, Robert Emmet MacAlarney. We argued with them. We fought over questions. We exhibited our weakness only to be knocked down and lifted up. "Uncle Charley" Beard was as inspiring a teacher as ever influenced the minds of young men.

It ought to be that the top professors teach the freshman. That is the year that is crucial. It is at that moment of first contact with learning that the young mind needs the stimulus of personality. It is the moment of youth's greatest enthusiasm and the question is whether he will look upon education as a routine chore that one goes through before getting a job or whether the college will leave a humanistic imprint upon his mind and personality.

War-time acceleration has left its imprint upon peacetime overcrowding. In neither has there been sufficient recognition that leisure is a tremendous psychological factor in the absorption of wisdom. Books are hurled at students as though they will never read a line after they leave the sanctum of universal knowledge. This runs counter to all assumptions of the place of the university which is assumed to be in production of, not a completion of knowledge and life.

The jammed up course of study may have the administrative value of weeding out those who lack photographic minds but it does not produce thinking scholars. As I observe the work some of the boys I know, they remind me of the monstrous calculating machines that the scientists are building so rapidly. Wires and electronic bulbs but not imagination. Education without leisure must be mechanistic memorizing without thought, without absorption into the psychological processes that form character and mold the mind. That is why so many really notable scientists are so naive and almost infantile in the normal fields of human endeavor; they have nothing but ponderables in a world where no ponderable is dependable. They deal in data but not in the facts of life.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

RHEUMATIC FEVER

A youngster develops a sore throat, doesn't seem to be very sick and is perhaps soon back at school again, when, about two weeks afterward, he does not feel well, and legs ache. The parents may call it growing pains, but the physician does not get better. The physician is called and discovers that the child is suffering with rheumatic fever, childhood's greatest enemy.

Why is rheumatic fever called childhood's greatest enemy? This is because statistics prepared by American Heart Association and published in "Public Affairs Committee, Inc. Pamphlet No. 21" shows that rheumatic fever, including rheumatic heart disease: (1) ranks with tuberculosis and syphilis as one of the leading causes of death among school children; (2) is the second commonest cause of death among school children; (3) is the second commonest cause of death by disease in the 20-24 age group; (4) causes much of the heart disease in later life.

As parents read these cold, deadly facts about rheumatic fever, they naturally may be frightened. But the pamphlet points out that these facts should be known to parents and everybody, because doctors and public health officials now believe that rheumatic fever can be checked if there is a widespread knowledge of what it is and how it should be treated.

What is rheumatic fever?
"This killer and crippler is a chronic disease that usually begins between the ages of 5 to 10. It is usually preceded by days or weeks by a germ known as the hemolytic streptococcus. This germ is commonly the cause of such illnesses as tonsillitis, scarlet fever, erysipelas, infection of the ear, and the so-called 'strep sore throat.' There is pain in the joints, some fever present, and sometimes nose-bleeds, loss of weight. It is because rheumatic fever always affects the lining of the heart that makes it so dangerous at the time and later in life. The only effective treatment for rheumatic fever is long rest in bed with good medical and nursing attention.

The above facts from such an authoritative source merit our careful consideration.

stroyed his freedom. As he swims about in a tank at the University of Washington, in Seattle, learned men watch him, make notes, have long discussions about him. As he moves past a radio-activity meter, it ticks wildly and his observers make more notes. This sturgeon ate the algae in his native pool after the bomb went off there last summer. And now he is radio-active himself.

He is pointed out as an example of the long-living contamination which an atomic bomb leaves in its wake. No one knows what the poor fish thinks about all this. But if man had any way of comprehending his ideas, doubtless it would be found that he shares human feeling about the atomic bomb, and wishes it never had been invented.

Now We See Through a Glass, Darkly

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, June 5.—None of our pretentious investigations of the Fascist union racket has done justice to the wicked practice of pledging American citizens, literally by the million, to causes in which they have never been consulted and which they probably would reject.

On May 24 something calling itself the "American Trade Union Council—National Committee for Labor Palestine" published a declaration entitled "American Labor Demands a Jewish Palestine."

The "American Trade Union Council—National Committee for Labor Palestine" appears to be an improved thing with no substantial existence, created for a limited political purpose. William Green and Philip Murray, the boss unioners of the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., respectively, are named as "honorary chairmen." This is an old, transparent dodge of the propaganda business. Honorary chairmen never take their names or any responsibility and their names are borrowed strictly for the prestige which they may confer. The active, or non-honorary, chairmen here are Joseph Schlessberg, James Brown and Max Zerkow, all of New York unions. So this is not, as the title suggests, a "National" council or committee for "Labor Palestine." It is just a local, metropolitan thing serving the political purposes of a few extremely prejudiced individuals.

The merits of Palestine are no being argued in this piece. The point I want to make is that it is a lie to say that "American labor demands a Jewish Palestine." The A. F. of L. recently acknowledged that "American labor" was not just the membership of the unions but all Americans who earn their living by work. Certainly, by that definition, American labor has never uttered any such demand. And even though we limit "American labor" to the membership of the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., the answer is the same. Nobody had any authority to speak for all these people on this issue.

Green, we are told, said: "The 7,500,000 members of the A. F. of L. are wholeheartedly in favor of a Jewish homeland in Palestine." If Green did say that, he belittled the intelligence of the very people he was trying to help. The American Zionists are too smart to believe that Green had any authority to speak for those 7,500,000 citizens on this subject. They know the question never has been submitted to either the A. F. of L. or the C. I. O. They know there are millions of American workers who, without prejudice, consider this to be none of their business. This is common practice in our union movement or racket whose dominating powers frequently reveal an absolute contempt for truth and for the right of the working citizen to think for himself on issues that are not union business.

The purpose of unions is to represent the members in dealing with the employers concerning wages and hours. They go beyond their legitimate business when they meddle in things that are the business of the State Department. Here, Green and Murray interfere in a foreign religious dispute.

A few years ago the New York Newspaper Guild under Communist rule, adopted a resolution opposing the draft. This occurred during the Hitler-Stalin alliance, which was equally guilty of the invasion and conquest of Poland. The American newspapermen hadn't anticipated this coup and weren't on hand to beat it by their votes. Thus they were recorded as having endorsed the Berlin-Moscow axis. The whole question was no proper business of this guild or any other union. But the law doesn't forbid such votes on such matters.

The National Maritime Union, one of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's proteges, once made a covert threat to blockade Spanish ports because Franco's Fascists had beaten the Communists in the Civil war. This was State Department business, but nevertheless a C. I. O. union, badly infested with Communists, discussed a course of action that might have brought the United States to war with Spain. Under law, it has a right to do this.

In New York, a worker draws his envelope on pay night and discovers that he is $3 short. Without consulting him, the bosses of his union have ordered the employer to turn his $3 over to them for a fund to make a memorial to the late Sidney Hillman. This American detested Sidney Hillman regarded him as a reptilian enemy of the American form of government. Yet, if he opens his mouth he may be charged with union-like conduct and fined and/or suspended. This memorial might be a Communist school or a "defense fund" for Communist offenses.

None of the measures proposed in Congress or the state legislatures deals with this kind of imposition. (Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A Warning

Kingston, N. Y., April 14, 1947

Editor, The Freeman:

I am writing you in hopes that you will see fit to publish the following warning:

An Open Letter to the Motoring Public.

As a resident of TenBroeck avenue, near Elmendorf street, I have observed numerous violations of the full stop sign at this intersection. Now TenBroeck avenue is a thru traffic street and the motoring public are sure using it as such in so far as not ever slowing down for intersections and speeding. Now the point I want to put over is the importance of stopping before crossing this street, not for the sake of obeying the law, which is important, but for the sole purpose of preventing a serious accident that might cost somebody a life, or serious injury.

I wish there was some way of educating the motoring public as to the importance of observing these signs.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Braden and Rockefeller Are Considered Victims of Ineptitude in Foreign Policy Handling

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 6.—The departure of Spruille Braden from the Department of State, where he held the post of assistant secretary in charge of Latin American relations, is a sad event, but so also was the departure of Nelson Rockefeller, his predecessor in the same job.

Both were conscientious officials who had definite ideas of how American policy could be better applied as between Argentina and the United States. But both were the victims also of an ineptitude in the handling of foreign policy which is costing America not only prestige but time and money in the stabilization of hemispheric affairs.

When Mr. Braden was ambassador to Argentina, he took the view that an American diplomatic representative could speak freely to the people of that country, and he did so at a time when they were having an election. The effect of his intervention was to intensify national pride, and Colonel Peron, the successful candidate, had no trouble in whipping up national enthusiasm as against foreign intervention in the internal affairs of his country.

Despite this reversal, American foreign policy drifted along without recognition of the fundamental fact that whatever is done in Latin America must be done by collaboration of all the inter-American countries.

In the face of the mistakes made by the United States in sanctioning the activities of Ambassador Braden in Argentina, the Truman Administration brought him to Washington and made him assistant secretary of state. This was a handicap, because it was soon discovered that the policy of the United States would have to be changed if any progress were to be made in the United States and Argentina. Then, for several months, Mr. Braden was apparently put aside while Ambassador Messersmith, acting under a different set of instructions, went to Buenos Aires to bring the United States and Argentina closer together.

Ambassador Messersmith is a trained career diplomat and he is one of the most experienced and able representatives of the United States Government who ever had in the foreign field. He set out to do a particular job: to bring Argentina and the United States together. He saw the practical and the realistic aspects of the situation, and recommended action to the Department of State in Washington. In a short time, the department began to back him up wholeheartedly so that, while Mr. Braden by his continuance in office represented one type of policy in Washington, Mr. Messersmith represented quite another policy in Argentina.

It was in San Francisco that Assistant Secretary Rockefeller made his fight for the admission of Argentina into the United Nations. He was supported there by the entire U. S. delegation, including Senator Vandenberg of Michigan. The left-wingers, who thought this was a recognition of "Fascism" or that in some way the United States was degrading itself by its policy, centered their attack on Mr. Rockefeller and tried to blame him for it. But the assistant secretary said nothing in public about it and just did his job in accordance with the outline given him by the late President Roosevelt. The theory of Mr. Roosevelt was that it was better after the war to have Argentina as a member of the United Nations, with the hope that later on Fascistic influences could be eradicated, than it was to make a permanent foe of the Argentine people, who would resent such a discrimination. This policy has been vindicated. (Reproduction rights reserved)

BABSON on BUSINESS

BUILDING STOCKS

Babson Park, Mass., June 6—

Before the start of 1947 we all looked forward to a building boom such as we had not seen since the 1923-27 period. We know now that this anticipated boom has not materialized. Nor do we expect any such boom this year. What happened to postpone the great potential demand?

Construction Costs

We have all read about the high cost of building materials. Those of us who have wanted to build have found this unfortunate fact. Lumber has been exorbitantly high and the green lumber now on the market is not building good houses. Materials have not only been scarce, but they have been expensive. Both of these factors have delayed the expected boom.

Labor is the great detriment to the building trade. The cost of labor is high and the workman's wage is far from expert. Many men who have previously had little real experience are obtaining the same wages as skilled craftsmen. Present labor union practices do not encourage apprentices to the building trades. This quite naturally keeps the supply of skilled labor low and the rates high. When a man pays for a building, be it residential or industrial, he wants to know that he is obtaining sound material and the best possible workmanship while still keeping his price within a reasonable figure.

Buyers Resistance

Industrial building, although up to this time hindered by government restrictions, has had a post-war start. We have all seen evidences of this in the plans and construction begun by leading businesses and industries throughout the United States. Will this program follow through in the face of the much ballyhooed business recession? More likely this also will slack off and await the time when materials and labor are both cheaper and better. How many veterans and other people displaced by the war thought of building homes when "peace" at last came? How many more had decided to buy homes?

We could compare the above countless thousands with those that actually bought or decided to build or buy, we would find a wide gap between desire and realization. In addition to excessive costs and poor workmanship, building regulations have proved discouraging. Continued strikes have contributed to the general pessimism. Only those who have been able to get into building or buying to keep a roof over their heads have succeeded. This about a group, less pressed by need and better able to await more favorable opportunities. Thus, we have seen a gradual drop in prices of older houses since about September, 1945. Not all the newly built houses are being snapped up.

Demand Still Exists

There are today persistent requests for federal and state housing for veterans and others. We hear of many fires and resulting deaths brought about by overcrowded conditions and careless conversion of private homes into lodging houses. Builders of apartments and houses to rent will be encouraged only when costs of building products have eased out. They wait also for a time when the cost of labor is more reasonable and their work more profitable.

As for building stocks most of them are at or near their lows for the year. Their prospects are good because of the still unsatisfied demand. They have been kept down by the failure of the building boom to progress. There has already been an indication that some manufacturers and processors of building materials may cut their prices. Should this work out, manufacturers of other construction materials may follow suit. When some of the problems facing present construction are solved, then volume construction can start. When this happens we will see a rise in the earnings of building stocks. Thus, although the building boom has been delayed, I continue to feel that it will someday come.

Becomes Doctor of Divinity

The Rev. Osterhout Phillips, pastor of Ponckhockie Congregational Church, receives degree of doctor of divinity conferred by Webster University, and special citation, from the Rev. Dr. Henry Mangum at program held Thursday and attended by 200 members and friends of the congregation. (Freeman Photo).

Divinity Degree Conferred Here On Rev. Phillips

More than 200 members and friends of Ponckhockie Congregational Church heard the Rev. Dr. Henry Mangum, executive vice president of Webster University, praise the pastor, the Rev. Osterhout Phillips as he conferred on him the degree of doctor of divinity, Thursday.

Aside from his remarks in which he said the several theses of Dr. Phillips were of such high character that the university recommended they be put into print, Dr. Mangum read this citation from the university:

"In recognition of your noble achievements in the Gospel ministry as pastor, evangelist and Bible conference speaker throughout the states, and in appreciation of your consecrated life, your loyalty to the Word of God, your deep concern for the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and the high esteem in which you are held by your fellowmen, Trinity-Webster University, Inc. hereby honors itself by conferring upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity, together with all the rights and privileges which appertain, therefore, to and this diploma. And with this expression of confidence we pray that heaven's richest blessings will continue to be upon you as you faithfully serve your Lord and Master, Jesus Christ."

In his address, Dr. Mangum spoke of "The Bridge Builder." He said that a Christian under God must be a bridge builder to aid weaker brothers over life's pitfalls. He said that we all must thank others for building bridges for us and that all we had owed to others and to the fact that they built bridges to help us be they educational, social, political or spiritual bridges. He warned not to build the narrow covered type of bridge of selfishness or the narrow bridge of selfishness of the toll bridge of a price to be paid for all of life's favors and assistance, but to build a wide bridge for all people of all creeds and colors and races that all walk with God together in love and brotherhood.

Dedicates Himself
The Rev. Dr. Phillips thanked Dr. Mangum for his invaluable assistance in his academic studies and urged him to convey his deep appreciation to Dr. Jay Bradley, president of Webster University and to the others of the faculty. Dr. Phillips said that he accepted the honor bestowed upon him as a challenge to a better ministry and a more useful life of service in the Kingdom of God. He dedicated himself to uphold the faith entrusted to him and thanked the many members of the local ministry for their Christian assistance in his work in Kingston. Dr. Phillips thanked the congregation for their untiring efforts in making the service a success and in helping him in his ministry as their pastor.

Receives Gifts
Several gifts were presented during the ceremony. Dr. Mangum, celebrating his birthday, was presented with a history of the church, stressing recent accomplishments, also a birthday cake. Dr. Phillips received a brief case and sash and a purse of money from the congregation and friends, a basket of flowers from Mrs. John Cordts and family and a gift from Dr. and Mrs. Henry L. Bibby.

Members of the clergy gathered in the dining hall which was decorated in blue and white, colors of Webster University, were the Rev. Charles Kegerize of the Christian and Missionary Church, the Rev. David C. Weidner of the Bloomington Reformed Church, Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel, the Rev. John B. Donaldson, the Rev. Walter A. White of the Shokan Baptist Church, the Rev. Ronald Williams of the Olive Bridge Methodist, the Rev. Edward V. Winder of the Albany Avenue Baptist, the Rev. George Dunn of the Gospel Sowers of St. Remy, the Rev. Fred Fatum of the First Baptist of Rhinebeck, the Rev. Arthur Hansen, the Rev. Martin Luther, the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool of the First Dutch.

Dr. Phillips' wife and mother were honored also by the congregation and presented with beautiful corsages.

The Rev. David C. Weidner presided over the preliminaries of the service. Scripture was read by the Rev. Charles Kegerize, prayer by the Rev. Walter White, offertory prayer by the Rev. Ronald Williams. The Rev. Fred Fatum sang a solo and a duet was offered by Mrs. Haynes and Mrs. Percy Krom. The Rev. Edward Winder at the request of Dr. Mangum escorted the Rev. Dr. Phillips to the platform and presented him to Dr. Mangum for the presentation of the doctor's degree. The Rev. Mr. Winder then offered prayer and the benediction.

Sent Congratulations
Letters and telegrams of congratulations were read from Mayor William F. Edelmuth; Dr. Robert Bruce, district superintendent of the Congregational churches; Dr. Philip A. Swartz, pastor of the Congregational Church of Poughkeepsie; Rose Levine, president of Hadassah; Mrs. John Cordts, Raabi Frank Plotke and others.

For a period of relaxation, the Rev. Dr. Phillips will leave on a fishing trip to Canada with Dr. Bibby, Harold Osterhout and Dr. William Letkowitz of New York city.

Taft Forecasts

strong enough to turn the tide in their favor.

Major provisions of the bill: Prohibit the closed shop, which requires employers to hire only union members.

Permit the union shop only when a majority of workers vote for it. Under the union shop, employers can hire anyone, but workers must join the union shortly.

Authorize the government to block national emergency strikes by 80-day court orders while the dispute is negotiated.

Ban outright some strikes and boycotts.

Make unions subject to suit for violation of contract and liable for unfair labor practices.

Deny collective bargaining rights to a union if any of its officers could "reasonably be regarded" as a Communist or a Communist sympathizer.

Set up a new federal mediation agency.

Outlaw union-controlled health and welfare funds created since January 1, 1946.

Satisfied With Bombers

Frankfurt, June 6 (AP)—The United States Strategic Air Command has demonstrated, at least to itself, the feasibility of striking targets in Europe from offshore Atlantic bases with long range heavy bombers. The command of the B-29 squadron which landed at Giebelstadt last night was checking up today on technical details of its practice mission to Europe after a non-stop 1,700-mile flight from the Azores. Of particular interest to commanding officers was the ability of present day crews to navigate over long water distances and through bad weather to reach a pinpoint target—and whether the big bombers could reach the target with theoretically enough fuel to return to their base.

Lone Wagon 'Train' From Texas

Benjamin Larry Young, 54-year-old adventurer "from Dallas, Texas," arrived in the city today after a journey on foot, which he said began last January 9. The veteran of World War I lugged behind him during the entire trip a boy's express wagon in which he carried his personal effects and a variety of hand-made articles for sale. Young told a reporter at noon today that he was en route to Glens Falls where he plans to stay a few weeks before returning to Texas. The traveler, who wore a colorful cowboy jacket, said that he set out on the long hike with the hope that he would restore to full use his left leg which had been seriously wounded in the war. His father, he said, was a native of Newburgh. (Freeman Photo).

Hide From Russians

Berlin, June 6 (AP)—German Social Democratic sources said today they had information from the Russian occupation zone that hundreds of German youths there were fleeing or going into hiding to escape being taken by the Russians for compulsory labor in uranium mines in Saxony, near the Czechoslovakian border.

Retirement System Is Holding Well Against Isaac Fuld

1-Year-Old Former State
Official Didn't Live
Up to Statistical Predictions

By HARRY O'DONNELL
Albany, N. Y., June 6 (AP)—The state Employees Retirement System has total assets of about $37,000,000 and presumably is holding its own against Isaac Fuld, New York city, who contributed $11.31 and has drawn $26,000 so far.

Fuld, who retired in 1921 as assistant chief examiner in the State Insurance Department, blithely ignored statistical suggestions that he cash in his chips 10 years later. Instead, he has continued drawing his pension for 26 years, longer than any other system member, the department says.

The venerable Mr. Fuld, who will be 92 on June 19, has been paid $84.30 a month since his retirement at 65, two weeks after the system was inaugurated on Jan. 1, 1921.

He is listed with distinguished company among those public employees who joined the system at the start and benefited unusually. In a contribution-payoff basis, Fuld's term Democratic Governor Alfred E. Smith contributed $7,514 to the fund and received $96,083 on Jan. 1, 1929, when he retired until his death Oct. 4, 1944. He collected $508 a month.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey belongs to the system which has 23,750 members whose payroll deductions are "matched" by amounts contributed by the political subdivision for which they work. Dewey contributes $54.89 every two weeks.

Former Governors Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert H. Lehman also belonged.

F. D. R. Cashed In
F. D. R. never collected a pension. He left state employment before he was 60 and was not eligible as president.

President Roosevelt withdrew his contributions—plus four per cent interest—in 1938, five years after he left state service. He got back $9,585.

Lehman, who was F. D. R.'s lieutenant-governor four years and executive himself for a record 10 years, contributed $36,940. He now draws $4,622 annually from the retirement system, the report shows.

Former U. S. Senator James M. Leach, Buffalo Democrat, began paying a $4,535 annual pension in January, with the proviso that his wife survives him. She will receive half that amount for the remainder of her life. Leach, now 82, contributed $22,581 to the fund.

The system was not designed to produce one-sided returns on member contributions. It actually is one of the most carefully matched investments by the employee and employer.

The system provides that the employee contribute enough money during his period of service to produce a reserve fund equal to about one hundred and forty per cent of his final average salary, multiplied by the number of years of membership service. (The final average salary is usually based on the employee's last five years of service, with estimates based on pension tables covering the type of job and the age of the worker.) The employer must contribute exactly one hundred and forty per cent of the worker's final average salary.

Contribute Same, Theoretically
Theoretically, the employee and employer contribute the same amount, but usually one or the other contributes more.

Recently, an employee retiring at 65 after 20 years service gets an annual pension equal to about one-third pay. If he has more than 20 years service, he gets more than half his pay; if less than 35 years the pension is less than half. Under the retirement law, enacted by Governor Smith in 1920, those employed by the state when the system became effective stood to benefit more than those whose careers covered a period after the system went into effect. Since January 1, 1921, the employee and the state make matching contributions. But for those with prior service, the state is required to make the entire contribution covering such period so the employee would not have to make "retroactive" payments.

Governor Smith, for example, had 25 years and 11 months of eligible service as New York county commissioner of jurors, assemblyman, New York county sheriff, president of the New York city board of aldermen and governor for eight years.

All but six years of that service was before 1921. So, while he contributed $7,514 from 1921 through 1928, the state's share including 19 years before 1921, was $76,003. In drawing $96,083, he received more than his reserve fund total of $84,000 which represented Smith's and the state's contributions.

The patriarchal Mr. Fuld worked for the state for 21 years. His $11.31 contribution to the fund came from his salary for the period from January 1, 1921, until his retirement 15 days later. The state's share, largely for the period of his employment before 1921, was $8,574.

Officials do not look for anyone else to parody as the persistent Mr. Fuld has.

LET'S EAT!

Cultivated blueberries enrich the season's first blueberry pie.

By Gaynor Maddox

NEA Staff Writer

Like fat, juicy, vividly blue cultivated blueberries? If you do, then rejoice. They are beginning to come to market. So begin tomorrow with the season's first blueberry pie—a novel, shortening-saving, rich and handsome pie.

True-Blue-Berry Pie

Pie Crust: One and one-half cups graham cracker crumbs, 1 cup peanut butter, 5 tablespoons honey.

Blend peanut butter and honey thoroughly. Work in cracker crumbs with a fork. Press firmly onto bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie pan. Bake in 325 deg. F. oven for 10 minutes. Let stand until cold before filling.

Pie Filling: One cup blueberries, 1 cup apricot jam, 1 box cultivated blueberries.

Sprinkle bottom of pie shell with bread crumbs. Place apricot jam in a heavy pan and melt over low heat, stirring constantly with a wooden spoon. Put jam through a strainer and then pour into pie shell covering the bottom of the pie. Allow jam to cool and then spread blueberries over the jam. Serve plain or with cream cheese whip made as follows:

Cream Cheese Whip: One 3-ounce package cream cheese, 1/2 tablespoons light cream, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla. Allow cream cheese to soften at room temperature. Blend in cream, sugar and vanilla and beat until light and fluffy. Spread over top of pie in thin layer or for more decorative effect, pipe with pastry tube in rosettes. This yields about 1/2 cup mix.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Sliced bananas, ready-to-eat wheat cereal, toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, lettuce, tomato and mayonnaise sandwiches on thin white bread, sliced oranges, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Chopped round steak patties, new boiled potatoes in their jackets, string beans, radishes, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, blueberry pie with cream cheese whip, coffee, milk.

60 Are Graduated After Six Weeks At Police School

Approximately 60 law enforcement officials of Ulster county, who have attended the six weeks "in service" Law Enforcement Officers Training School at the court house, were given their diplomas Wednesday evening at the concluding session of the school which was sponsored by the New York State Association of Chiefs of Police and the New York State Sheriffs Association.

The diplomas were presented by County Judge John M. Cashin and Louis Hurley of the F.B.I.

Prior to the awarding of the certificates, Mr. Hurley thanked the men who had attended the school and congratulated them on "what they had done for themselves" by attending the school and familiarizing themselves with many difficult police duties.

Telling the men that the duties of the police officer is becoming more difficult, he said the criminal is becoming more clever and "knows what to do," making it far more difficult for the law enforcement officers to cope with crime.

One thing the F.B.I. agent told his listeners was "never underestimate" the criminal. "Better to be super-careful than get in difficulty," he said and pointed out that many police officers have been killed and criminals escaped when the officers treated a case as routine and did not go in prepared for the worst.

"Usually if you are prepared for the worst nothing happens," but he warned the officials to always be careful and prepared.

Stresses Good-Will

John Hays, F.B.I. agent from the New York office spoke on "Public Relations." He reminded the officers that their employer was the "general public" and suggested that every attempt be made to please the employer.

Citing the experience of the New York city policemen, he said that for years the New York department had built up good-will and when it came to putting before the people of the city a proposition for increased salaries, after the city government had turned down the proposal, the people voted the proposition 9 to 1.

Good-will of the public built up over a period of years was responsible. The twenty year pension plan of New York city came about too because of good-will of the public.

"If you don't have the good will of the people you won't be a good police officer," he said and he also urged that the men present meet the public on or off duty.

Mr. Hays also said that the good will of the public was needed for the solution of crime. Without the confidence and good will of the public no information would be secured from the public and crime could not be solved without information from the general public.

Build Confidence

Bad public relations with some European police officers has created a feeling among Europeans that police officers cannot be trusted. This is demonstrated, he said, by people coming to the United States from certain foreign countries who continue to distrust our officers.

By building up confidence and good relations with the public this can be overcome.

One way to gain confidence and good will is in answering the complaint taken over the phone. Treat the complainant with respect and give him or her confidence by a business-like confidential manner of answering the phone.

"Don't brush off the people," he concluded. The officers were also cautioned not to become involved in either political or religious arguments and to try never to antagonize the public.

Judge Cashin Speaks

Prior to awarding the certificates Judge Cashin spoke of court room demeanor of the police officer. He cautioned them to give

Tag Days Slated By Volunteers of America June 5, 6

Tag days are being observed today and Saturday for the treasury of the Volunteers of America, it was announced today by Adjutant Arthur Noble.

In making the announcement, the officer in charge of work at the local post of the institution on Barman avenue, said the collection was necessary to make up for a quota that was not reached in last winter's drive.

It is hoped by the organization that everyone will contribute to collections on the tag days to enable it to carry on its nursery and program of welfare work in the community.

According to Adjutant Noble, the nursery has catered to 2,498 children from families whose mothers have to work to help support them.

In the emergency home, 61 persons have been given 890 lodgings and 2,652 meals. Twelve were given medical care and transportation was arranged for 13. Six maternity cases were handled.

Meals were furnished for 68 transient and needy families received 212 pieces of salvaged clothing and 51 pieces of furniture.

In the mission, 23 services were conducted with a total attendance of 662, and 20 Sunday school sessions were held for 662.

The principal theme of the mission work is to encourage faith and to get people interested in attending church.

Husbands Dissatisfied

Striking feature of England's 1946 divorce statistics was the large proportion of actions brought by husbands. Of the total of 2,909 divorces brought in one large British city, 1,970 were actions brought by husbands and 939 by wives, London reports.

Receive Police School Diplomas

their testimony in an unbiased and business-like manner, never appearing "anxious for a conviction" and to be respectful on cross examination. Judge Cashin also explained the provisions of the Youthful Offender Law which involves young persons between the ages of 16 and 19. Explained the working of the Reception Center at Elmira and how that Center attempts to send young law violators to institutions where they may be rehabilitated and sent out again as good citizens.

In concluding Judge Cashin said that he had observed the officers attending the police school and felt that "just so long as the enforcement of the law in Ulster county is in the hands of the high type of men you appear to be, the citizens of the county need have no fear of proper law enforcement."

Judge Cashin also warned that to be a good police officer every officer must have the complete confidence of the public.

Participating in the school have been numerous law enforcement officers who have given talks and lectures on subjects related to law enforcement. Among them have been F.B.I. agents, sheriffs, city police officers and others.

At the meeting last evening Sheriff George Smith and Captain Ray Van Buren of the Kingston Police Department took part in the concluding session of the school.

In closing Agent Hurley thanked the men for their attendance and said he hoped the school had given them something of benefit.

Letter From Congressman

June 3, 1947

I have received quite a number of printed postal cards typical of pressure group tactics, to which some of my constituents have affixed their signature. The card reads, in part, to the effect that enactment of the Taft-Hartley bill will force the Hudson valley back to the sub-standard wages and living conditions that existed only a few years ago.

Many times in the past I have urged my constituents not to resort to this type of communication and I feel positive that many of those who signed the cards are not familiar with the provisions of the labor bill, and I simply want to reiterate that this bill has rightly been called "The Workers' Bill of Rights."

This bill gives the worker a voice in the affairs of any union that is his collective bargaining agent. The bill is based upon the sound premise that the public interest is paramount. If this bill becomes law, the American worker should receive, through this legislation, the freedom that the Wagner Act promised, but took away instead. It recognizes the inescapable truth that to raise our standard of living and to improve the welfare of our people, we must work together for the maximum production of goods, so that all of the people can buy at reasonable prices.

Fortunately, the bulk of my mail favors the enactment of the bill, and in a short time when the bill is placed on President Truman's desk, we will know if his statement, after last fall's election that he would cooperate with the new Congress, was merely a political gesture or whether he was sincere in his desire to carry out a legislative program to which the Congress was committed.

In passing this bill, I believe the Congress is delivering the wishes of the people.

Guild's Classes
To Begin June 23;
Group Limited

Woodstock, June 6—The Summer Workshop of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen will open on Monday, June 23. Classes are limited so that students can receive maximum attention and instruction. Those interested are urged to register immediately.

Beatrice Gazzo, will be the instructor in design and the work will include problems in structural composition leading to individual expression and dynamic use of the components of design. Intensive work in color and experimentation with mediums and materials will be included.

Those interested in learning the art of weaving are most fortunate in having the able instructor Floyd Lavigne who encourages his students to seek a personal approach to weaving and textile designs. The nature, possibilities and limitations of materials, as well as such fundamental technical problems as warp-winding and the counting of materials, are studied. Designs and working drawings are executed. Drafts for the 2-4 harness loom are made and transferred to the loom. Since great stress is placed upon the need for experimentation and analysis, the student weaves numerous samples, including experimentation with rug techniques and materials.

Pottery will be under the supervision of Jessie A. Stagg. Coil method and turning on wheel, glazing, decorated and carved tiles, ceramic sculpture, figures and animals are all included in this course.

Jewelry and Leather
Beginning and advanced students in jewelry design will be well instructed by Edward Chiver. Particular emphasis will be put on the free and imaginative use of materials in designing, using the simplest possible means. Rings, bracelets, earrings, necklaces, buttons, belt buckles will be made.

Mounts Will Be Seen in Horse Show

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Good are among other Woodstock Riding Club members who have been grooming and training their horses this week for Sunday's horse show at the Lake Hill arena. Mrs. Good is mounted here on her mare Gaybelle, while Mr. Good is on White Son. (Freeman Photo.)

Woodstock Horse Show Is To Be Held Sunday, Lake Hill

Woodstock, June 6—Miss Gaybelle and White Son, stablesmates, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Good have their own particular show qualifications. They will be ridden by their owners at the horse show to be given by the Woodstock Riding Club at the Lake Hill Arena, Sunday, at 1 p. m.

Though there are many well-bred and finely mannered horses to be shown at the forthcoming show, it is doubtful whether two from the same stable can be found which are as different as Mr. Good's white and palomino-spotted parade horse and his wife's mainly chestnut, flaxen-manned mare. White Son, a good sized and spectacular looking animal is said to be quick as a flash in turning and other stock class maneuvers; also he has a natural bent for showing off. When appearing in a real parade or a Western parade show class, White Son raises his hocks high, arches his neck, and puts on the kind of a performance he thinks the public will appreciate. As evidence that not only the public but horse show officials also like his way of going, this horse won a blue ribbon last year at the Newburgh Horse Show, in the Western parade class.

Tennessee Walking Horse
The mare, Miss Gaybelle, is a Tennessee walking horse and her dainty mincing slow gait sets off the natural beauty of her conformation.

Both of these animals, though trained and responsive to intricate cues from their riders, are very gentle and are ridden by the same daughter of the owners. In order to get the horses to the Lake Hill Arena, a new trailer has been purchased and the animals are being trained to board it, though this may seem like a simple process, it is often very difficult.

Tough Competition
Though Miss Gaybelle and White Son are excellent examples of the type of animals of their breed, they will be in tough competition for there are two other walking horses to be shown at Lake Hill as well as a number of spotted horses who will give White Son a run for his money in the stock class.

The efforts made this week by members of the Woodstock Riding Club to get themselves and their mounts in the best possible condition for the show seem to be bearing fruit. At a recent schooling session, observers were pleased to note that considerable progress has been made.

Events and Entries

A complete list of the contest events and the names of those who have entered up to the present time was announced as follows:

ROAD HACK—Sugie Bared on Dutchess; Richard Shullis, Texas Prince; Ruth Lapo, Brandy; Judy Wagenfohr, Rhumba; Harrison Muller, Kansas; Paul Permain, Lovely Lady; Peggy Jeronimick.

Fur Is Honored By Conservation Rangers at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Leon E. Furch of Fleischmanns, the former a district ranger of the conservation department for 25 years who was in charge of the Catskill region for many years, were recent guests at a testimonial dinner given at Fink's Restaurant in Summitville. Mr. Furch has now retired from service.

Prior to his duties in the Catskills, Mr. Furch was in charge of Orange, Rockland and Sullivan counties.

More than 50 rangers, observers, wardens and their wives attended the testimonial dinner with Leon Johnson, ranger of Hancock, acting as master of ceremonies. Mr. Johnson presented Mr. Furch with a casting rod and reel and Mrs. Furch with a beautiful bouquet of roses, carnations and snap dragons. Both thanked all for the gifts and delicious dinner.

The guest of honor later gave a talk outlining the vast work which had been accomplished under his supervision in forest fire control, recreation and distribution of state land of the forest preserve of the Catskills.

Fred Johnson, ranger, presented a humorous part of the program and a former ranger, David Ellison spoke of his experience of 25 years with the department.

Authors Are Hosts
When Century-Old
Wisteria Blooms

Woodstock, June 6—Open House at Wisteria time is always a happy occasion for friends of Helen and Alf Evers, internationally famous writers of children's books, who live in a charming old house at Lewis Hollow, Woodstock, with their three children, Jane, Gunny and Kip.

More than 75 guests drove up the Overlook mountain road Sunday for the Evers' annual afternoon party which is held when the beautiful white wisteria is at its best. It is doubtful if there is anything for miles around to equal this impressive sight, for judging by the main stems and subsequent growth, one can readily believe that the original wisteria plantings were made more than 100 years ago. According to the Evers the main part of the house was standing in 1810, and it is likely that it was built many years before that time.

Looked for Ideal House
Helen tells the story of their search several years ago for a house in Woodstock. Like so many people, they knew exactly what they thought they wanted in the number of rooms, baths, heat, and the usual requirements for comfortable living. Will Elwyn, a Woodstock real estate broker, was very patient in showing them house after house, none of which seemed to meet their requirements. One day, in Mr. Elwyn's office, while looking through his photographs of available places, Helen's eyes suddenly lit upon one showing a house, the front of which was practically covered with wisteria. "There's our house," said Helen.

Baths Lapse to Wisteria
Mr. Elwyn explained that while it was a very attractive and very old house, it was not at all the size house they had described to him as being necessary for their family. Furthermore, he reminded them it was not located where they desired to live. However, no amount of practicability on the part of Mr. Elwyn could divert

HELEN AND ALF EVERS

Helen and Alf and they bought "their" house. It was too small and had only one bathroom but the things that had seemed so important in the beginning were apparently of no importance at all if they couldn't have the lovely wisteria.

Began Careers in Woodstock
The Evers embarked on their career of writing children's books in Woodstock during the early years of their marriage. Alf had been a writer of more serious note, and Helen, an illustrator. At Helen's suggestion in 1931, they wrote and illustrated their first book, "This Little Pig," which is still popular and as a matter of fact has recently been published in Argentina.

"Copy Kitten," a later book, and perhaps their best known one in the United States, has been delighting small boys and girls with its humor, and at the same time teaching a wise little lesson, for SKIP styling for a moment—it's pretty well admitted by now that Buick has called the turn on the shape of cars to come.

And for the present, slide over performance—with that big bonnetful of Fireball power, nobody's going to challenge you much on the open road.

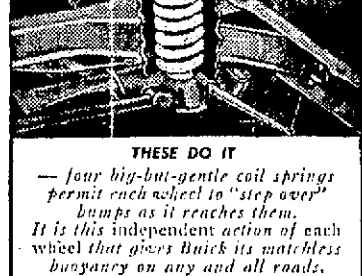

What else has the trim Buick got that others can't quite come up to?

You find one big answer where the cobbles are plentiful, the car tracks tangled, the bumps big.

This brawny traveler has a ride—a smooth, level, easy stride that makes you think of a canoe drifting in quiet waters.

One reason: It was Buick that first introduced the American public to soft, gentle coil springing on all four wheels.

It was Buick that first made it possible for each wheel to step over bumps as they came along, leaving the frame and body to pursue their level way undisturbed.

Buick's coil springs keep their gentle softness always. They need no greasing or attention. They are unaffected by dirt, wear or the weather, and breakage is practically unheard of.

The net of it all is that you put yourself on Easy Street when you seat yourself in a Buick. You make every road a better road—every ride an adventure in smooth and buoyant comfort.

Why not drop in and learn more? Whether you have a car to trade or want to talk on a "clean deal" basis, you'll always find a warm welcome here.

Health for All

Resisting TB

Man has a natural resistance to tuberculosis, a disease which nevertheless takes the lives of approximately 53,000 Americans a year. When the tubercle bacillus, the germ which causes the disease, enters the human body the work of resistance begins immediately. Defensive forces organize to wall off the invader in a network of cells and fibers. In many cases, especially when the invader has entered a strong, healthy body, this is the end of the battle for the time being. The enemy is made captive.

In other cases, when the victim's defenses are weak or when so many germs have repeatedly infiltrated that the forces of resistance are outnumbered and disintegrated, the disease gets the upper hand and serious illness results. Pulmonary tuberculosis, or tuberculosis of the lungs, is the most common form of tuberculosis in man. Most of the 53,000 Americans who died of tuberculosis each year die of pulmonary tuberculosis and its complications. The anatomy of the lungs is such that it is easier for the germs to find entrance there than in other parts of the body, and once the germs have entered the lungs and begun their destructive work they meet fewer natural blocks than they would in other areas.

In the conflict waged between the germs and the body's resistance, resistance usually wins out. When it falters, the patient becomes seriously ill. When he goes to a sanatorium, doctors and nurses use every known medical means to organize and strengthen his forces of resistance.

Since few of us go through life without coming into contact with tubercle bacilli at one time or another, we owe it to ourselves to keep our general health so sound that we can successfully resist whatever germs come our way.

In the next article, sunbath or kantan will be discussed. This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health by the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, 74 John street, Kingston, N. Y.

New Yorker, Says Budenz, 'Miss Y' of Trotsky Killing

New York, June 6 (AP)—A native New Yorker who was connected with a local newspaper, says Louis F. Budenz was the "Miss Y" who introduced Leon Trotsky's assassin to Trotsky's secretary.

Budenz, former editor of the Daily Worker who renounced Communism commented on "Miss Y" before he went before the June grand jury for an hour yesterday as a voluntary witness. He declined to name "Miss Y," but said he would give her name to Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet.

After testifying, neither Budenz nor Grumet would comment on "Miss Y." The former had said that the woman, an American, had introduced Frank Jackson, convicted slayer of "Trotsky," to Sylvia Ageloff, the Marxist leader's secretary in Mexico City.

Now a Fordham University economics instructor, Budenz said he would return to testify further within the next two weeks.

Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, and others recently had told the district attorney's office that Budenz's book, "This Is My Story," suggested that he could give valuable information to the grand jury.

Girl Scouts Register For Six-Week Camp

Of the 302 Girl Scouts registered for Camp Wendy, Wallkill, 225 are from Ulster county and 77 from out of the county. The camp will open June 29 and close August 10 in a six-week period rather than an eight-week period as originally scheduled, since most of the registrations have been for the first six weeks.

The girls who registered for the last two weeks will be accommodated in earlier periods. It is suggested by the camp committee that the last registrants take the first period, June 29 to July 13, since the other periods are more nearly filled. Girls who are not Scouts may now register for Camp Wendy.

The report of the camping plans was made by Mrs. Donald Tinnie, camp promotion chairman, at the June meeting of the Ulster County Council held at the Girl Scout headquarters, 43 Crown street. Mrs. Kenneth Martin of Kingston will act as business manager. Miss Elizabeth Leehive of Kingston will have charge of preparing meals. She will be assisted by Miss Elsie Steilen, dictation of Ellenville, who has had several years experience at Camp Wendy before the war. Mrs. Donald Tinnie of Port Jervis will be leader of the Brownie unit. Miss Hazel Metcalf, Girl Scout executive, will direct the camp.

There are few vacancies for unit leaders' assistants, called counselors in some camps. These girls must be 17 years of age or older, have had some experience with children. There are also places for girls who wish to work part time in the dining room and kitchen and participate in camp activities the rest of the day.

The council voted to buy two new flat-bottomed rowboats for use in the waterfront program with the three boats and two canoes they now own.

The council decided to hold no meeting in July and the August meeting will be held August 4 at Camp Wendy. The council members will be guests of the camp for dinner at 6 o'clock and hold their business meeting later.

Girl Scout headquarters office will close June 20. All business thereafter will be transferred at the office in Camp Wendy, Wallkill.

Only Four Brides Apply for Licenses So Far This Month

June at its outset has given no indications of becoming the usual best month of the year for brides, according to a report today by City Clerk Raymond A. McAndrew.

The city clerk said this morning that he had issued only four marriage licenses to date for the month but it was expected that this low figure would be offset by an increase in applicants within the next few days.

May did well enough however with a total of 35 licenses issued, the local official reported.

THE VERB "TO WORK"

The wife of a junior executive writes me: "A requirement of my husband's work is that he must listen to a certain 15-minute radio program put on by his firm, about three nights a week, just about the time we are halfway through dinner. Even when we have company, he excuses himself and leaves the table. I spend most of my time, until he comes back, trying to explain to our guests, how important it is that he listen in on that broadcast. But I'm sure people think he is rude not to make an exception when they are present. (I must say that I think he is carrying this listening in too far.) What do you think about such behavior?"

I rather wonder why you give dinners on these three evenings. If you must choose these evenings, then why can't you dine half an hour later?

A Girl Named for Her Mother
Dear Mrs. Post: What about calling a girl named for her mother, "Mary Snooks, Jr."?

Answer: Certain families have done it, probably because they disliked the only alternative suggested up to them, which was to add "Yr." (Younger) to the daughter's name. To call the daughter "Mary Snooks, 2nd," which she literally is, would be better form than adding "Jr." because "Junior" always has been a masculine suffix which looks wrong after a woman's name. Of course, in the usual situation, it is not necessary for a daughter to use any suffix inasmuch as her mother is "Mrs. John Snooks" and she is "Miss Mary Snooks." It does become necessary sometimes when the mother is well known in a profession or business as "Mary Snooks" and not "Mrs. John Snooks."

Fork Not a Shovel

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever correct to hold the fork with the thumb up but the handle under the hand?

Answer: Certainly not. A baby would clasp his spoon this way, while he's learning to manipulate it by himself, but no grown person should do it.

Mrs. Post has written a helpful leaflet, E-3, "The Clothes of the Bridal Party," which includes the correct dress for informal summer weddings. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station C, New York 19, N. Y. Iona Island Fades Peekskill, June 6 (AP)—For many years a source of ammunition supply for the United States Navy, the naval arsenal and depot on Iona Island, in the Hudson river off Peekskill, is being deactivated. It was learned today. The working force, that numbered 800 civilian employees two years ago, has been cut to 179 and will be further reduced until, in a few months, there are only a few caretakers there. A detail of marines, which has guarded the island for many years, will be withdrawn as soon as the ammunition stores are taken away.

Dodgers Split Twin Bill With Mahanoy City at Stadium, 5-3, 3-10

Scherger Paces Team With Five In Nine Tries

The Kingston Dodgers strengthened their lead in first place last night as they split a twin bill with the Mahanoy City Bluebirds, the second-place Carbondale outfit losing at the same time to last-place Bloomingdale.

The Bluebirds opened the first contest with a run in the initial frame on a double by Bernard Scherger, but the local players tallied three runs in the same stanza on three hits, singles by Kerr and Kowalski and a triple by Manager Scherger, who really found his batting eye last night with five for nine, three singles and a pair of two-base hits.

Manager George brought the third run across the plate for the Kingston team when he singled and scored on Kowalski's double, in the third inning. Mahanoy City chalked up their last two runs in this game in the fourth, on two walks and a single by Bernard. In the same session, Myers singled for the Dodgers, and scored on a base on balls with the bases loaded.

Mahanoy City, four hits, three runs and four errors, lost to Kingston, seven hits, five runs and no errors.

Bluebirds Connect in Second Mahanoy City really went to town in the second game, scoring 10 hard-earned runs on 11 base hits. They collected three hits in the first for a lead of 4 runs, two singles and a triple to right. Three more runs were tallied in the next two innings, with the Bluebirds third-sacker, Tom Murphy, hitting a homer past Brian Kerr in left field in the third inning.

Kingston was unable to score until the third, when they garnered three singles for two runs. They were behind 10-3 in the last half of the ninth. Ray Cutter, pinchhitting for pitcher Seddon, slammed a single into center field. Kerr fled out to left. Scherger was safe on an error, but the side was retired when Kowalski and Williams fanned.

The Dodgers could have used a win in the second game last night to good advantage. While they were splitting with Mahanoy

City, Carbondale bowed to the Bloomingdale Troopers 7-3. Tonight the Dodgers play a double-header at Carbondale, with a single game scheduled for Saturday night. They play here in a double-header against Stroudsburg Sunday afternoon.

The Dodgers were on their toes last night from a ball-playing angle, and were down in the dumps when that double victory failed to materialize. They had good reason to feel a bit low. Harold Roettger, Director of Brooklyn's Minor League Farm System, was in the stands looking over potential prospects on the playing field. Roettger, however, is very well pleased with his first-place boys, and commended them highly on their good playing. He was accompanied last night by Fresno Thompson, a big name in baseball today. Thompson, one of the Brooklyn teams leading scouts, is the field supervisor for this area.

Sangi Blasts Two

New Mixed League

Marks Wednesday

John "Red" Sangi, a veteran of many Mixed Bowling League campaigns, featured Wednesday night's action at the Central Recreation alleys with a scorching 256 single and 623 triple. Both were new records for the present season.

Dick Howard formerly held both marks with his 229 solo and 602 series.

Despite Sangi's terrific blasting, his club dropped two encounters to Ferraros who finally found the win column after absorbing nine straight beatings. Johnny Ferraro led the onslaught himself with a 235 single and 599 triple. Sangi's other scores were 199 and 168.

Both Schryvers and Howards cracked through with a pair of wins last night to hold down the top position in the standings with 8 wins and 4 defeats. Schryvers tripped Sangi twice while Howards won two from Francis.

Haber's Grill evened their record for the young season by wall-ping Chez Emile for three straight. Habers have now won six and lost the same number. Not a single 500 series was bashed in this match as Tony LaRocca, anchor for the winners, topped the trundlers with a 492 triple.

Following Sangi's 256-623 effort, other highlights included John Ferraro with 235-599, Dick Howard 214-599, Charlotte Lapine 225-551, Evelyn Moore 187-539, Jake Francis 198-532, Perc Slover 178-516, Evelyn Francis 176-504.

Rosendale-Tillson

Defeats Duffy's

Aces in Twin Bill

The Rosendale-Tillson Post team took two games from Duffy's Aces, 5-2, 5-1, behind the 6-hit pitching of Dick Dreisler in the first contest, and the 2-hit hulding of Vince Kuhn in the second win. Dreisler fanned 11 batters and Kuhn struck out 15. Dreisler, Kuhn and Marx starred at bat for the winners. Howard Allen made a beautiful running catch to take a sure homer away from Davis, Duffy's shortstop. Bert Dehamer, the Stone Ridge first-sacker, hit a double.

All in One Game

Philadelphia, June 6 (AP)—Cincinnati's double victory over the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday cost the Reds the services of a second baseman, ended a net fielding streak of the Phils' Enli Verban and sent an umpire to the hospital.

Benny Zientara of the Reds suffered a twisted left leg and a sprain in the seventh inning of the second game when Harry Walker slid into him. Umpire Jocko Conlan was hit on the collarbone with a foul ball off the bat of Eddie Miller in the third inning of the first game. He was taken to Jefferson Hospital for examination. Verban dropped a throw from Lee Hadley in the sixth inning of the second contest. Prior to that Emil had accepted 171 successive chances without a miscue.

Brooklyn Takes First Place; Yanks Cut Tigers' Lead to One

By JACK HAND (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Freshman Harry Taylor, whose third straight pitching victory coincided with Brooklyn's arrival in first place, is hailed in Flatbush as the man who could pitch the Dodgers to the National League pennant.

Beaten in his first big league start at Cincinnati, May 13, Taylor did time in the bullpen, relieving five times before Manager Burt Shotton gave him another starting chance against the New York Giants. Taylor humiliated the Giants' home run sluggers, 14-2, with a five-hitter and followed with another of the same against St. Louis, beating Harry Breechen, an old Dodger jinx.

Fritz Ostermuller, who has taken particular delight in beating Brooklyn consistently since Branch Rickey tried to send him back to the minor leagues in 1944, was his opponent yesterday. Taylor turned in his best effort, a two-hit, 3-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

The win boosted the Brooks into the lead because the Giants and the Chicago Cubs, who had been tied for first place, split a doubleheader at the Polo Grounds.

Giants Split With Cubs After Paul Erickson of the Cubs had tamed the Giants with three hits in a 5-1 opening game, Mel Ott's gang slashed away at three Chicago throwers for an eight-run third inning to even matters with a 9-3 decision. Monty Kennedy, sent right back after being knocked out Wednesday, came through with his fifth win and a Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell ran his victory total to seven by shutting out the Phillies, 5-0, with six hits, the Reds flattening Ken Rafsenberger with a five-run first inning. Harry Gumbert's fine relief pitching enabled the Reds to take the second game, 6-3, for a clean sweep of the doubleheader in which Grady Hatton collected a total of six hits. Cincy hopped into fifth place on the day's work.

Marty Marion's homer with two on in the ninth enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to pull out a 5-3 decision over Boston's Johnny Sain. The Cards now are within three percentage points of the seventh-place Phils.

Yanks One Game Behind The New York Yankees continued to crush the American League leading Detroit Tigers, 7-0, on Spud Chandler's three-hit work. Three out of four over the Tigers left the Yanks only one game behind the Bengals.

Jesse Flores' three-hitter boosted Philadelphia's A's into a third-place tie with Boston and Cleveland on a 5-2 win over Chicago's Edgar Smith. Early Wynn of Washington shut out Cleveland, 3-0, with six hits in a game marred by an injury to Manager Lou Boudreau of the Tribe. Boudreau left the game with a side injury in the third inning.

Boston and St. Louis were not scheduled.

Capitol Open Poses Which Is Better

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Either the game is getting too easy, or the golfers are getting better.

For the $10,000 National Capital Open went into its second round today with 30 of the 104 starters under par figures.

It used to be that if a golfer did what Jimmy Thomson of Chicopee Falls, Mass., did yesterday morning—shoot a 66 on a par 72 course—he could order a double sarsaparilla and relax.

But before the par-punishing day was over Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., and E. J. Harrison of York, Pa., also had come in with 66's.

And only a stroke back were Bobby Locke of South Africa, Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del., George Payton of Hampton, Va., and William Griffin of Washington. Griffin, an amateur, captain of the Georgetown University golf team.

Locke is especially interesting because he looks so little like a golfer.

Most of the stars come disguised as fashion plates. But not Locke.

Imagine a former Notre Dame footballer who is commencing to get bulky. He says to his wife, "I think I'll shoot a little golf, honey. I'll do me good."

So he rummages in the closet, drugs out a pair of knickers that have been used to wear, puts on a pair of old white shoes, jams a white canvas cap on his nose, and rolls up the sleeves of his everyday shirt.

He's ready. He's also a good double for Locke.

Once Locke gets around a golf ball he's nobody's Sunday duffer. His drives aren't breath-taking, but they're good enough—and right down the middle.

And when he gets to the green, ah! short pants and all, on the green, he's deadly.

Hurley Juniors Defeat Married Men in Thriller

The Hurley Juniors, a team composed of teen-age boys most of whom are under 17, defeated the Hurley Married Men last night 7-5, rallying in the 5th inning to send four runs across the plate and take the lead.

In the 7th, a beautiful peg from the Juniors' right fielder caught a runner at the plate and cut off a potential run that would undoubtedly have started a rally for the older men.

The batteries: Juniors, Wirth and Landers; Married Men, Myer and Gille.

The Hurley Juniors are looking for games and want to be booked with any team composed of teenagers. If interested, call 59-M-3.

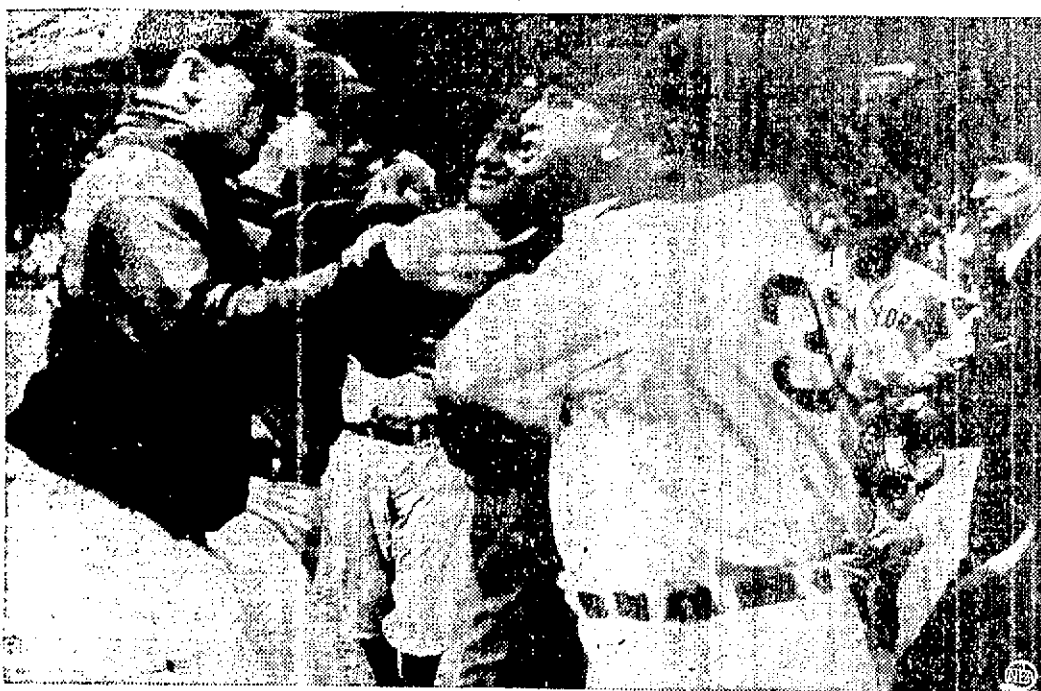

Summer Classic In Full Swing At Central Rec

The Summer Classic Bowling League, going ahead on all fours at the Central Recreation Bowling Alleys, found eight more teams on the hardwood last night in a three-game series.

Rudolph Plumbing scored over Hofbrau 2814-2575. Carnright's Dairy won from Haber's Grill 2814-2477. Evergreen Inn chalked up 2545 pins to defeat Blunder Dress Shop (2451), and Kingston Laundry took a 2701-2240 scrubbing from Sam's Restaurant.

HEY GANG, A FIGHT!

This fight broke out in the fourth inning as Spud Chandler of the Yankees shut out the league-leading Tigers, 7-0, at Briggs Stadium, Detroit. Billy Johnson slide home safely when catcher Hal Wagner missed the throw. Ralph Houk of the Yanks accused Wagner of going out of his way to block Johnson and took a punch at him. Freddie Hutchinson and Roy Cullenbine (left to right) here argue with Umpire Charley Berry as Stout Steve O'Neill (foreground) moves in. Houk and Hutchinson were banished. (NEA Telephoto).

Chez Emile, Jones Dairy Tied for First

Chez Emile nosed out K. of C. in a City League baseball game last night 3-2, stepping into a tie for first place with the league leading Jones Dairy team.

The winners scored two runs in the 4th when Crosby reached first on McCordie's error. Sickler walked and Hansen singled into left scoring both runners.

The Knights came back in the next inning with two runs on singles by Dougherty, Buchanan and McCordie, to make it an even ball game.

With the score tied up and the game gone into an extra inning, Rich led off for Chez Emile in the last half of the 8th with a single to left. Crosby bunted, but the forced play at second didn't work, and two men were on. Schrowang forced Crosby at second, Sickler walked, and catcher Ray Lindhurst won the game with a clean single.

Tonight's schedule finds Franks Sport Shop vs. Hofbrau in what promises to be a thriller.

Opussums Prove Pests
Opussums, introduced from Australia, now rank as a principal New Zealand pest, the Wildlife Department in Wellington reports. They cause damage to trees and are a natural enemy to birds. Young opussums, known as "kittens" are carried in the mother's pouch and later on their father's back.

William Becker, janitor in Chicago's downtown Loop section, keeps a firm grip on a misguided opossum he caught enjoying a garbage can snack at the rear of his building. No one knew how the possum got from his naturally rural habitat into the heart of the city.

"Ja" Strong Enough
Going all out in an effort to make his German fellows forget their Nazi days, the local chief of police in Dresden has banned use of the emphatic affirmative "Ja!" He claims it is a military expression used by members of the German armed forces when given orders by their superiors. Just "Ja" will be plenty, he insists.
